The design and layout of the site looks more like a mini-program for your computer than a site that is intended to be used for learning purpose. The layout is simple and stylish at the same time. The colors, images, text and other information on this website are made easily available to people with an internet connection through quick and easy navigation.

The software contains three main segments:

These four segments are further broken down into numerous sections in order to assist in efficiently guiding any user with things they need to learn about using the Arabic language. Here is an example of each of these sections which will help you understand how it can help you in your learning endeavors:

Version 2.0 is the latest version of this software. It was introduced on July 11, 2009.

This version features plenty of advanced features which include:

There is also an interactive section which allows you to communicate with other users by asking questions and answering theirs. Version 2.0 was introduced in July 2009. Version 2.1 was introduced on December 8, . It includes the following:

As of November 2011, this version has been taken off the market and replaced with version 2.2. Version 2.2 was launched on March 15, 2012 and is currently still receiving constant updates and bug fixes (as of September 2012). This version includes:

The latest update was rolled out on January 3, 2015 to correct a few errors which were found in earlier releases. Thus far the only change that has been implemented is that the new cloud based servers will replace the older servers and will be located in Pennsylvania (United States). The software is designed to be used on your PC internet browser and requires a high-speed internet connection. In order to use the software, you must first register by registering an account with their website. You can then install the software on your computer and start using it right away without any additional effort. The developers of this website have been noted as being very helpful when users have been having issues using this program or with how it works in general.

In December 2010, the Arabic Alphabet Challenge was confirmed by a spokesperson from Simda BMD at a press release held in Dubai, UAE in front of a crowd of over 200 people who were attending the event.
